BAPTIST

COMMITTEE INVESTIGATING NATIONAL CONVENTION BOARDS

Prominent Ministers from all Parts of the Country.

COMMITTEE TO LOOK INTO WORKINGS OF ALL THE BOARDS LOCATED HERE—WILL THEN PROCEED TO OTHER PLACES WHERE BOARDS ARE LOCATED—FIVE HAVE HEAD-QUARTERS IN THIS CITY—SEVERAL DAYS WILL BE REQUIRED TO COMPLETE THEIR WORK—THE REPORT IS TO BE RENDERED AT THE SESSION OF THE NATIONAL BAPTIST CONVENTION IN NEW ORLEANS NEXT SEPTEMBER.

On Tuesday morning of this week a special committee appointed by the National Baptist Convention for the purpose of looking into all of the property in this city in possession of the three boards with headquarters in Nashville, began its labor. Not all of the members were able to reach the city, the conspicuous absentee being Attorney Wm. H. Harrison, of Oklahoma, to whom it was said the Convention was looking to have information upon the legal points and data connected with the property.

It was thought all along that Judge Harrison would be here, but it was given out by some of his friends with whom he has been associated for years and who were well known to him doing his stay as a Professor at Roger Williams University that he was detained on important legal matters that would come up in Oklahoma just at the time he was expected here—then too, it is known that he has charge of the constitutional test of the jim-crow car law enactment of the State of Oklahoma, which will be held before the Supreme Court at St. Paul, Minn., next month necessitating his remaining at home getting all of the array of facts together for this legal battle.

Some of the committee however came in, but owing to press of business at home, could not remain, especially was it true with Rev. M. W. Gilbert, D. D., pastor of the Olivet Baptist Church, Fifty-third street, New York, N. Y. Dr. Gilbert at one time pastored in this city and according to his statement, it was impossible for him to remain throughout the session. The personnel of the committee as given in last week's Globe was practically unchanged with the exception of the presence of Rev. E. C. Morris, President of the National Baptist Convention, who came in Tuesday morning to be in the committee's session for at least a part of the time, although no a member of the committee, it was appointed by him.

It could not be stated early in the week just how long the session would be nor how many days they would remain in the city. It was predicted however, that it would take about 8 or ten days, as the B. Y. P. U. Board, of which E. W. D. Isaac is Secretary; the Educational Board, of which the late Dr. A. N. McEwen was Secretary; and the National Baptist Publishing Board, of which Rev. R. H. Boyd is Secretary, would have to be looked into. Nothing was given out at the Baptist headquarters as to just how far this committee's power went, and in the absence of a copy of the National Convention proceedings, the Globe reporter could not even see the nature of the resolutions but the consensus of opinion seems to be that this commission will follow along the lines of the last commission, which was here some three years ago and which was composed of Rev. R. T. Pollard, D. D., Selma, Ala.; Rev. T. O. Fuller, D. D., Memphis, Tenn.; Rev. J. E. Knox, D. D., now of Houston, Texas, who made their reports to the Convention showing that everything owned by the Convention in this city, so far as they were able to ascertain, was in splendid shape.

Strauther.

DEPARTED.

On January 21st, 1910, Harrison Anderson, the son of Mrs. Agnes Gentry and the grandson of Mrs. Martha Peyton departed this life. He was a faithful member of Clark Memorial Sunday-School. The following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, God in His wise providence has plucked this flower from His earthly garden to transplant it in His kingdom, thus our hearts are frantic with grief and sorrow; but we do not sorrow as those who have no hope. Every season has its rain and sunshine. Every rose has its piercing thorn. Every joy has its corresponding sorrow. Ever so in the midst of life there is death, and

Whereas, Harrison Anderson, who was a faithful scholar and officer of our Sunday-school, has been summoned from this life of pain, grief and sorrow, to a life of peace, rest and everlasting joy, and

Whereas, This family has been caused to mourn because of the departure of this gracious boy, be it

Resolved, That we, the officers and members of the Sunday-schools, extend to this bereaved family, Mrs. Agnes Gentry (mother) and Mrs. M. Peyton (grandmother) our deepest sympathy and love.

The chain of our librarians in our Sunday-school has been broken and in the hereafter there will be a vacant chair in Primary Class No. Three, but while we have thus been deprived of his service here, Heaven rejoices at his reception there. Be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be made a part of the Sunday-school record.

Most respectfully

S. L. Porter, T. B. Hardiman, C. S. Bailey, Committee.

FALSE

ROGER WILLIAMS NOT GOING TO BUY OLD PEABODY SITE.

Groundless Rumors Create Little Stir.

FAMOUS UNIVERSITY COMFORTABLY LOCATED ON EAST SIDE—PRESENT HOME PLEASES BOARD AND BAPTIST OF TENNESSEE—RAW DEAL HANDED INSTITUTION BY HOME MISSION SOCIETY—SOLD WEST NASHVILLE PROPERTY FOR OVER TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS—HAS ONLY GIVEN TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND TO THE NEW SCHOOL—THOSE IN CONTROL NOW SEEKING TO MAKE FRIENDS.

A rumor, more or less persistent, has been going the rounds during the past day or two to the effect that the present site of Peabody College University of Nashville was about to be taken over by Roger Williams University, a school for Negro students. It was said that a proposition for the purchase of the property had been made by persons authorized to represent Roger Williams to the Trustees of George Peabody College for Teachers, and that they were giving it favorable consideration. No confirmation of the rumor can be found but on the other hand, both parties to the alleged deal disclaim all knowledge of it.

One of the trustees of George Peabody College for Teachers said this morning: "I find it hard to believe that there is a single person in Nashville who would give credence to the report that the old University of Nashville grounds and buildings are to be sold to a Negro school. You may say positively that the trustees will do no such thing. Besides, Roger Williams has never made any proposition concerning it. Our plans may develop something that will mean a great deal for the old site, but it will not mean a Negro school."

A prominent Negro in close touch with the affairs of Roger Williams University, said: "I hardly think it possible that any offer has been made or will be made for the old Peabody site. We understand perfectly that it is not the proper place for us. We know that the white people of that section of the city do not want us there, and we know it is best for us, as well as for them, that we should not be there. Roger Williams is much better situated where it is now located. We are trying to hold the friendship of our white friends here at home, because we have suffered already by not having them in closer sympathy with us. The Northern white people have not treated Roger Williams University right, and we, of all people, know that we must depend on ourselves and the Southern white people. We do not want the Peabody campus and buildings. Walden University would get out of South Nashville to-morrow if it could, and Fisk University realizes that its work is hampered by not being entirely out of the city.

Doesn't Seem Likely.

With these views held by the two parties it does not seem likely that the University of Nashville grounds will be sold to Roger Williams University. The best information obtainable appears to indicate that a proposition originated, probably somewhere North, for a sort of three-cornered deal. Three years ago the establishment in Nashville of an institution for the education of Negro Baptist preachers, to be known as the National Theological Seminary, was authorized. This institution has never been established. It has no endowment, but it has behind it Negro Baptists to the number of 2,500,000. The proposition recently made was that if the University of Nashville grounds and buildings could be secured for Roger Williams University, the National Theological Seminary would take over the present site of Roger Williams University, two and a half miles from Nashville on the White's Creek Pike. So far as can be learned, no actual negotiations have ever been made toward such a deal.

Roger Williams University has not the funds with which to purchase the old Peabody site, and even if it were willing to accept it, could do so only as a gift. When the old Roger Williams buildings beyond Vanderbilt University, burned a few years ago, the Home Mission Society of Northern Baptists, which then controlled the institution, collected, it is understood, $60,000 of insurance and sold the grounds for $175,000. "All of this money," said the Negro heretofore quoted, "was taken to New York, or at least out of Nashville. Immediately after the buildings were burned it was decided, in New York, that Roger Williams would not be rebuilt. Mr. Morehouse, Secretary of the American Baptist Home Mission Society, announced that he would rebuild it on a better basis, but the proposition he made to the Negro Baptists of Tennessee was that if they would raise $20,000 the society would give $20,000. Dr. R. H. Boyd and others had Dr. George Sale, of Atlanta, Educational Secretary of the Home Mission Society in charge of Negro schools, to come to Nashville and agree with the Negroes of Tennessee to give dollar for dollar for all they could raise. Our Southern white people had been so handled, they were so distant from us that we could not have them intercede in our behalf. The Negro Baptists of Tennessee had, for a long time, been handled like babies by the white Baptists of the North and were not in position to do much for themselves, so that comparatively little has resulted from that arrangement.

Under this state of affairs, it is argued Roger Williams University could not acquire the University of Nashville campus if it would, and would not if it could.

THANKS.

I desire to thank the pastors and officers of St. Paul A. M. E. Church and Mt. Olive Baptist Church for the use of their churches and assistance given in the readings of Mr. Richard B. Harrison for the benefit of Mercy Hospital. We realized $37.00 clear for the hospital. This was 50 per cent of the net proceeds. I thank the good people who attended and promised linens and other useful things for the hospital.

Very gratefully yours,
R. F. BOYD, M. D.,
Superintendent.
